SUMMER READING CLUB

The State Library of Queensland's Summer Reading Club will swing into summer with a circus-themed extravaganza of online games, quizzes, stories and prizes, as well as fun-filled library activities. From Monday 15 December children and young people can listen to Kim Lardner's hilarious stories, chat online with Terry Denton and Anna Fienberg, write their own spectacular ending to Alyssa Brugmann's High Wire, have their say on a blog with Jack Heath or showcase their artwork alongside original circus illustrations by Kerry Argent.

The Summer Reading Club is an annual state wide program that offers children up to 16 years a broad range of fun activities to engage, entertain and inspire. Last year 197 Queensland public libraries participated and over 8,500 children read more than 40,000 books.

Participants can register online at www.summerreadingclub.slq.qld.gov.au or through their local public library.

Would you like your students to be engaged and entertained with reading and writing activities this summer? Please let them know about the Summer Reading Club!
